

Update Your Photo

Adding a photo to your LDS.org directory profile can help other ward and stake members recognize you and connect your name with your face. Having photos with profiles can be especially helpful in leadership meetings and other times when ward and stake members make plans to help others.

1 Take your photo

You can upload both a household photo and an individual photo for each member in your household. Household photos will be resized to a maximum of 500px wide by 375px tall. Individual photos will be cropped to square proportions.

2 Upload your photo

3 Get the uploaded photo approved

Your photo must be approved by a directory administrator before others can see it. Click Ward Leaders to see contact info for your website administrator, clerk, or executive secretary and ask one of them to approve your photo.

4 Make sure your profile is visible

Edit your profile and see the visibility settings next to your photos. Your Household Visibility Limit must also be set to Ward or Stake for other members to see the photo.
